(21—23 題為題組)

What dreams try to tell us is still a mystery. Many people can remember their dreams very well, but nobody can tell them what they mean. Sometimes, we dream about our family or friends; sometimes we dream about people who we've never met before. In dreams, we may be at a place where we often go, or we find ourselves at a place totally strange to us. Dreams are sometimes very strange. We may do something which we'll never do in real life.

Even though dreams are mysterious, most people agree that a lot of dreams are related to what we think in the daytime. Moreover, some people's dreams are silent and colorless, while some people's are full of sounds and colors. It is said that people who have colorful dreams have more imagination than those who have colorless ones. According to many artists, they do often have colorful dreams.

21. According to the text, dreams _____.

(A) tell us clearly what they mean by showing us many different stories

(B) are always about things or people around us

(C) are mysterious because sometimes things or people we have never seen will appear in our dreams

(D) can make us remember things well

22. What we dream _____.

(A) has something to do with what we think in the day time

(B) is hardly related to what we think in the daytime

(C) will be forgotten when we wake up

(D) can tell us a lot of secrets of our family and friends

23. According to the text, people who have colorful dreams _____.

(A) are all artists

(B) are more imaginative than others

(C) don't like people who have colorless dreams

(D) tend to be silent in real life

第一階段語文檢定-英語文 成就測驗 試題卷

(24—25 題為題組)

In the west, marriages are both legal and religious events. In most cases, a couple must apply for a marriage license to record their marriage with the local government. Then, they hold a religious wedding ceremony that attends to the more spiritual aspects of love, trust and commitment involved in a marriage.

Many of the rituals associated with western marriages date back to ancient customs. The wearing of a white wedding dress comes from Greek and Roman times and shows the bride's innocence and purity. The wedding ring symbolizes eternal love in the shape of the circle, which has no beginning and no end.

A bridegroom is usually forbidden to see his bride on the day of the wedding until she is presented at the ceremony, a superstition thought to prevent bad luck. A similar superstition requires a bride to wear "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" to ensure good luck on the day of her wedding.

24. What is the wearing of a white wedding dress supposed to show?

- (A. The innocence and purity of the bride.
- B. That the bride is from Greece or Rome.
- C. That the family couldn't afford a red wedding dress.
- D. That married love is never ending.)

25. Why is the bridegroom forbidden to see his bride on the day of the wedding?

- (A. Loud noises might frighten away good spirits.
- B. So she can surprise him at the altar.
- C. To prevent bad luck in the marriage.
- D. She might not want to be married.)
